This small family is made up of a young single mother and her young son. This mother made the hardest decision by giving custody of her oldest son to her parents in order to better meet his medical needs. She is currently trying hard to ensure that her youngest son is living in a safe and stable home free of domestic violence and drug addiction. With an eviction hanging over her head due to financial issues, this mother is struggling to pay off debts, but also give her son the holiday season he deserves.
